Overview

JAACAP Connect is an online companion to the Journal of the American Academy of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry (JAACAP), promoting the development of translational skills and publication as education. A core mission of JAACAP Connect is to engage trainees and practitioners in the process of lifelong learning via readership, authorship, and publication experiences that emphasize translation of research findings into the clinical practice of child and adolescent psychiatry. The field of child and adolescent psychiatry is rapidly changing, and translation of scientific literature into clinical practice is a vital skillset that takes years to develop. JAACAP Connect engages clinicians in this process by offering brief articles based on trending observations by peers, and by facilitating development of lifelong learning skills via mentored authorship experiences. Authors should be familiar with the considerations below, as well as the JAACAP Guide for Authors (www.jaacap.com/authorinfo) as they prepare their manuscript for submission.

Submission Requirements

Authors who submit to JAACAP Connect must be AACAP members in good standing. Medical students can be AACAP members free of charge, and residents receive a reduced member rate. For more information regarding membership, please visit: Become an AACAP Member. This change will take effect September 1, 2021.

Manuscript Development and Submission

JAACAP Connect is interested in any topic relevant to pediatric mental health that bridges scientific findings with clinical reality. As evidenced by our previous editions, the topic and format can vary widely, from neuroscience to teen music choices. What trends have you observed that deserve a closer look? Can you envision reframing key research findings into clinical care? Do you want to educate others on a broader scale, thereby improving the health of children around the country, the world? We encourage all levels of practitioners and researchers, from students to attendings, to join in and participate.

Authors are strongly encouraged to submit an initial outline to the editors, so that early feedback and guidance can be provided prior to the development of a full manuscript. An invitation to submit does not ultimately assure acceptance of the manuscript.

Manuscript Format

The manuscript word count, including references, should be approximately 1,200-1,500 words. References should be prepared according to the AMA Manual of Style, 11th Edition, and authors should use no more than 5-10 references and have the option of including 1-2 figures or tables. Manuscripts should follow the general JAACAP Guide for Authors regarding the formatting of the title page, figures and tables, and references. Please include preferred corresponding author contact information.

All submitted articles should include a title, author list (in order), About the Authors, and Take Home Summary. About the Author: Include the name, position, and affiliation of each author. Take Home Summary: Include a short sound bite (less than 40 words) to draw readers to your article and remind readers of the most important take home message from the article. Translational articles should include a brief concluding summary of the article, highlighting the main points of the article, with an emphasis on the clinical relevance.

Manuscript Submission Form

The Journal requires that a Manuscript Submission Form (MSF) be completed for each submission. The MSF is available at www.jaacap.org. For assistance in completing this form, please contact connect@jaacap.org.

Peer Review and Mentorship

Outlines and manuscripts will be reviewed by the editors, editorial board members, and select experts. Translational articles are challenging and authors are strongly encouraged to find and work with a mentor/expert to develop the content of their article and navigate the submission process. We recognize that mentorship for manuscript authorship may not be available to everyone. We will work with students, trainees, early career, and seasoned physicians, regardless of previous publication experience, to develop brief science-based and skill-building articles.

Case Reports

As a general rule, JAACAP Connect does not publish case reports. Brief cases (<100 words) may be used to provide clinical context or as a sidebar, but stand-alone case reports are not encouraged and may be rejected. Prospective authors interested in writing an article inspired by a case may wish to partner with a mentor in transforming a case report into a more broadly applicable article.

Patient or Guardian Permission

Patient anonymity must be protected and any identifying information omitted (including but not limited to name, address, chart number, and date of birth). If any photos or images may be used to identify the patient, the author must follow these requirements: Any submission that has not been approved by an Institutional Review Board but that includes identifying patient information (such as
Permission for Previously Published Figures or Tables
Authors must identify figures or tables that are not entirely original, including those that are unpublished, adapted, or previously published from another source. Written permission must be obtained from the copyright holder. Such permission should be included in the manuscript submission. Failure to provide permission will delay processing of the manuscript. Costs associated with obtaining permission to reuse material are the responsibility of the author.
